

08

THE CIRCLE OF LIFE

Ms. Alpna Tyagi
Research Scholar
CCS University, Meerut,
Uttar Pradesh, India

==========

They enter the lonely shack,
Allured by melodic tune,
Flow their sweat, round the clock,
Dig gems of fortune.

Trim the weeds,
Wet the clay,
Mould in charming shapes,
Cover the roof,
With strong wattles,
Constant wine of grapes,.

Fetch the water,
From blessed Brook,
In layers of elegant flowers,
Lying on lea, down the hill,
Adore the precious hours.

They dance, they sing,
In ecstasy,
They knit the dreams,
With smile,
Wholly lost in wonderland,
While worries on exile.

But ohh! In a trice,
Comes a demon,
Cruel as a crab,
Nibbles away, the pulse of life,
Tightens it's grab.

Some drops of pain,
Shrieking hearts,
Assemble to bid farewell,
Leave the world, pondering over,
Thread of life, so frail.

Time passes, returns the same,
Hectic way of life,
Again sprouts, a new seed,
Joins the world of strife.

Hollow vessel, awaits the hour,
With various charming pearls,
All is part of, life's circle,
In the world of mortals.

This is an Open Access e-Journal Published Under A Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License

To Cite the Article: Tyagi, Alpna, "The Circle of Life". Literary Cognizance, III-2 (September, 2022): 17-18. Web.